Rahab's Rope

Rahab's Rope Women's Center Offering Hope

Thank you for taking the time to read our enclosed information. Rahab's Rope is a 501C-3 ministry looking for opportunities to share the story of what God is doing among a group of women in India.

The purpose of our ministry is to share the Hope and Love of Jesus Christ with women who have been forced into the horrific world of human trafficking.

We do this by meeting immediate physical needs and offering vocational and educational training. Our shelter in India houses up to thirty women and provides vocational training for hundreds of women each year.

Our main source of funding comes through the purchase of beautiful hand-made items that our women and others make.

We would love the opportunity to speak to your organization and have a booth at any of your ministry events.

Thank you for any consideration you may give us.

Blessings,
Vicki Moore

Did you know...

- Every year up to 4 million women and children around the world are trafficked into prostitution and slave labor
- human trafficking is the third largest source of income for organized crime
- each day in India nearly 200 girls and women are forced into the sex trade

Our Name

Rahab's Rope

In the Bible you will find a story of a woman named Rahab. There is a rope in the story that represents Rahab's rescue, physically and spiritually. Similarly, in India there is a Rahab today. About 200 girls and women are forced into the sex trade every day. They are used for a few years, then thrown into the streets to survive. With love and compassion women are rescued from the street, provided food, shelter, protection and trained for a better way of life. Just as Rahab's rope represented her rescue, so do the products of Rahab's Rope. By purchasing the products of Rahab's Rope you are enabling more girls and women an opportunity for hope where they thought none possible.

Our History

In January of 2004 I came across a story on the internet about women in India that got my attention and broke my heart. The story told how everyday in India about two hundred girls and women are forced into the commercial sex trade. I had previously visited India several times working with missionary friends in an orphanage and Bible college but had never heard this story. I began to search for more information and learned that every year over four million women and children around the world are trafficked into prostitution and slave labor. I had no idea and the more I searched the more atrocity I found. I could not get out of my mind this newfound knowledge and questioned God, "why isn't someone doing something about this?" As usual, when we ask, He replies, "I would like for you to do something". I had an upcoming trip planned for May of 2004, and with my new direction came new plans for the trip. We set up meetings in a couple of different cities and sought God's leading. He led us to Bangalore, India and the process began. In December of 2004 we held our 1st Annual Christmas Celebration to introduce Rahab's Rope to a group of women that had been used and abused for most of their lives and saw no sign of hope. We had 100 women in attendance on that first Celebration day, which started us on an incredible journey. Please join us as we seek Him! Blessings to You.

Success Stories

Since our beginning in 2004, our staff has worked with over six thousand women on the streets. We have had over twelve hundred come through the center in Bangalore and we are still in contact with over one hundred women that have successfully re-integrated back into society as positive contributing members. This holistic approach breaks the abusive cycle and crosses barriers to reach out to this community. Rangeetha (pictured at right) now has her own successful sewing business and employs other women.

Our Mission

The mission of Rahab's Rope is to give hope and opportunity to women and girls that have been forced into the commercial sex trade of India by providing a safe and loving environment that will enable them to grow both physically and spiritually.

Vocational Training Class

Our Vision

Our vision is to see lives transformed by God's love in action, to reveal His love in a way they can see, understand and respond to in faith. We see this transformation as a process of rescue, rehabilitation, restoration and re-entry. By meeting emotional and physical needs, nurturing them in God's love and faith, providing discipleship and vocational training the women are prepared to re-enter their communities. Their example inspires other to follow.

*Transforming lives
one at a time*

Our Story

It has been an amazing journey as we have seen God change and rebuild lives. The ever growing number of women we serve is a result of this transformation. God is also drawing men and women from all over America to share their gifts and talents at Rahab's Rope. When bringing people together to accomplish His purpose, there is never a dull moment! We hope you choose to join us in this incredible work God is doing.

Blessings!

Love in Action

Rahab's Rope provides vocational and educational training for the women that come to the center. We offer daily English and Math classes that are taught by American teachers. Some girls have been able to enter higher level educational and vocational schools in their community. Our main vocational training at the center includes jewelry, sewing and paper products. Below you can see samples of some of the products they make.
